

Abstract

For machine-milking an animal such as a cow it is proposed that a pulsed vacuum with sequential evacuation and ventilation phases is generated in a teat cup of a milking unit by 5 means of a pulsator , wherein the pressure curve during the evacuation phase and/or the ventilation phase is controlled in at least two speed rates.